Call for Nominations Editor-in-Chief, IARS Journals

The International Anesthesia Research Society (IARS) announces its search for Editor-in-Chief of its flagship journal, Anesthesia & Analgesia, the leading clinical journal in anesthesiology. The Editor-in-Chief develops and executes vision and strategy for the journal and leads a large editorial board.

Dr. Jean-Francois Pittet's second term as Editor-in-Chief will conclude at the end of March 2024. The next Editor-in-Chief will be appointed in early 2023 for an initial 5-year term beginning in April 2024.

Applicants should have a broad perspective of the anesthesiology field and be astute to emerging areas of research and practice. A high level of visibility and recognized leadership in anesthesiology research, scholarly publication, and practice are expected. The successful candidate will have extensive experience with prominent, peer-reviewed scholarly journals as author, peer reviewer, and associate editor, editorial board member, or editor-in-chief; and demonstrate access to a large network of experts working in fields relevant to clinical anesthesiology, including perioperative medicine, critical care, and pain management.

Diversity and inclusion, in all their forms, are essential to the IARS. Diverse representation will be taken into consideration in the selection of candidates. The successful candidate will be committed to progressing diversity, equity and inclusion among Anesthesia & Analgesia's editorial board and reviewers as well as in science, research, and patient care through the Journal.

Applications should be received by September 1, 2022, and include a cover letter describing the reasons for interest in the position, a brief description of the candidate's editorial experience, and a curriculum vitae. After a review of applications, candidates meeting the listed qualifications will be asked to provide additional information about their experience and strategic vision for Anesthesia & Analgesia.

First-round interviews will be conducted in November/December 2022 and finalists will be interviewed in early 2023.

IARS has partnered with scholarly publishing experts KGL Consulting to conduct the search for the Anesthesia & Analgesia Editor-in-Chief.

All applications and nominations should be addressed to Lisa Marshall, Senior Consulting Associate, KGL Consulting (lisa.marshall@kwglobal.com) by September 1, 2022.
