

The International Anesthesia Research Society

is pleased to announce our 2010 Teaching Recognition Awards Recipients

Innovation in Education

EDWARD C. NEMERGUT, MD

University of Virginia Health System
Charlottesville, Virginia

“The practice of medicine is changing quickly. Just as medicine changes dramatically, so must the practice of anesthesia. If we are to remain leaders, we must strive to be known as the most innovative educators.”

Achievement in Education

JONATHAN L. BENUMOF, MD

University of California, San Diego
San Diego, California

“My primary professional mission is the creation of new, and strengthening of existing, anesthesiologists. I work very hard at making sure the base of my student pyramid understands my lesson. In truth, I consider myself a member of that base.”

Congratulations to this year's recipients!

Learn more about our 2010 TRA Recipients
Visit www.iars.org/awards/teach.asp

IARS

International Anesthesia Research Society